

Announcing a change of Living Tradition Concert Coordinators

Hello all – Gary Trobridge here from The Living Tradition. Terri and I have had the privilege and extreme pleasure of being The Living Tradition’s Concert Coordinators for 7 years beginning in 2010. Alas, the time has come for us to step down from that role, effective at the end of this year. We are not going away, and we expect to attend many concerts after this year. But it is time to turn over the leadership to allow for a new vision and passion. We have been working with our Board of Directors since the beginning of this year to ensure a smooth transition as we searched for new coordinators. So with that in mind, on behalf of The Living Tradition Board of Directors it is my pleasure to announce that effective January 1, 2017, Ron Bloom and Carol Schryver will be The Living Tradition’s Concert Coordinators.

Carol Schryver is a retired businessperson who previously owned and operated a florist shop. Ron Bloom is a practicing psychotherapist. They are very bright people with good senses of humor – and they know their traditional/folk music. They have been devoting more and more of their time to performing with their band The MacMammals playing Celtic, English, and American folk, with some original compositions mixed in. In fact, they will be opening for William Pint & Felicia Dale at our September 17th concert! And you will start seeing them at most of our remaining concerts this year as they learn their new role.

Ron and Carol

Terri and I have no doubt that with Ron and Carol’s business and organizational background, along with their knowledge and passion for music, they will do an outstanding job.

Please join us at a concert soon and say hello to our future Concert Coordinators!
